

DONE WITH CASTLE GARDEN.

INVESTIGATOR OKAY QUINT INVESTIGATING AND GOLF HOME.

A lively day for the Emigrant Commission—Messrs. Stevenson and Taintor kept on the anxious seat.

Chief Okay, the special representative of Secretary Fairchild, who has been conducting the investigation of Castle Garden in the stuffy little room in the Custom House for eight days, packed his traps and left for Washington.

The last day of the inquiry brought forth Mr. J. C. Savary of the American Emigrant Company and Commissioners Hausolt, Stephenson, and Taintor.

Mr. Savary said his company did a big business in Scandinavia, importing at least 100,000 of them every year. His agents have been refused admittance to the garden. Mr. Savary said that he had seen his people, meaning the Scandinavians, and especially defenseless women, forced to submit to bad treatment from the employees in the Custom House.

Mr. Okay, at the suggestion of Commissioner Taintor, requested the company to furnish him with a list of names of the immigrants who had been refused admittance to the garden.
